

GEOG 1101

An introduction to world regions through the context of human geography. The course focuses on basic geographic concepts to analyze social, economic and political issues at local, regional, and global scales. Elements of fundamental physical geography will be discussed to illustrate the spatial relationships between the physical environment and human geography.

Skills Developed

Leadership

worked on a group project about the European Union in which I was in charge of the in class presentation. Also presented an individual report on Scotland to the class.

Communication

taught the class information about Scotlans and the European Union through oral and power-point presentation.

Organizational

Organizing the georgraphy of the world through notes and power point.

Teamwork

worked in a group to make a comprehensive report on the European Union.

Creativity

Created two unique presentations: Scotland and European Union.

Technical

Produced two indiviual power points.